Bringing Hope and Restoration to the Imprisoned Children of Africa in Jesus' Name

SixtyFeet has been working specifically in Uganda for the past two years providing relief to hundreds of orphaned and abandoned children who reside in government run Remand Centers, what we in the States commonly call juvenile detention centers. The only difference is that the vast majority of these children have not committed any crime. Mostly, they are children under the age of 12 who are simply unwanted. They are street beggars who have been rounded up by the police, unwanted children who have been dropped off by a stepparent, handicapped and mentally disabled children, and orphaned refugees fleeing war torn countries in Africa. These Remand Centers are grossly overcrowded and terribly under funded.

SixtyFeet was created in April of 2010 to bring hope and healing to these children through the love of Jesus Christ. SixtyFeet provides relief in the form of food, clothing, and medical care; emotional support in the form of counseling and school sponsorships; restoration in the form of reunification with families and education; and hope in the form spiritual nurturing through teaching and discipleship. We are also working to remove the most vulnerable children and place them in a loving, safe environment.

By making a donation and buying a cupcake from The Cupcake Kids, you are helping to bring hope and a future to wrongly imprisoned children of Africa! 100% of the funds raised by The Cupcake Kids are used for the support of those helping the children in Uganda and resources necessary to provide for their needs.

$1 provides a healthy meal for a child
$5 provides a Bible for a child
$100 provides basic medical care for 15 children
$200 provides a nutritious meal (meat, vegetable, fruit) for one facility
$4,200 provides one year of support for a Ugandan staff member
